

AND WILKINSON ADVERTISER.

^a THE UNION OF THE DEMOCRACY FOR THE SAKE OF THE UNION

Number. 9.

WOODVILLE, MISSISSIPPI, TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 1, 1853.

TO PREVENT NUISANCES AND OBSTRUCTIONS.

§1. Be it ordained by the Corporate Authorities of the Town of Woodville, in general meeting convened, That if any person or persons, finding or having control of any slave, or slaves, shall permit him, her, or them, to go at large and hire his, her, or their time, or to live separate from the lot of residence, or from under the immediate management, direction and control of such owner, agent, or overseer, it shall be the duty of the town constable to apprehend, with or without warrant, every such slave, and take him, her, or them, before the mayor, and if, upon trial, it shall appear that such slave or slaves have been permitted, by his, her, or their owner, agent or overseer, to have gone at large, and to have hired his, her, or their time, or to have lived separate from the lot of residence, or from under the immediate management, direction and control of such owner, agent, or overseer, it for any person, or persons, to show, or exhibit for profit, within the limits of the city of New York, any circus, menagerie, or other show, or any theatre, circus, caravan, exhibition, museum, ledgerman, or feats of dexterity, without first obtaining a license from the mayor so to do, for which the person or persons applying shall pay, if a circus, theatre, or menagerie, the sum of ten dollars, and if a museum, ledgerman, or feat of dexterity, a sum of five dollars, for each and every night the same may be shown or exhibited; and any person who shall so exhibit or show, without having obtained a license as before directed, shall be arrested by the constable, and taken before the mayor; and if, on trial, such person be convicted, the mayor shall impose a fine not exceeding twenty five dollars, on such offender, and commit him or them to custody, until fine and cost be paid, or, said mayor may, at his discretion, issue execution against the offender, for such fine and cost.

BY FRANK FLORENCE.

ere I could not forbear tapping my old nd's shoulder rather, significantly, but he antly replied, "No, never—I admired her
would admire an enchanting landscape,
listen to her as I would to the mocking-
by moonlight, and would as soon hear en in love with either as with her. She had a early trained to distrust the whites, and
and a certain soft courtesy and dignity of

at the hour of midnight was passing and must hasten. He came first to this tree, covered the leaves, then crossed to the rose—was hushed—and so oppressive was the moon then reigning, and the power of early election, that he bitterly groined as he wished to gather the flowers and leave a place which seemed to add weight to his sadness, and, in returning, led by Dula's house; good by that Pawa tree, which I see you left—and the door was covered and hid by some wild vines which they had planted.
As he was passing he involuntarily turned as he did so, for the first time, observed as he seated at the door, half hidden by the ivy, but with enough of moonlight on the wall to show him that it was Dula. At the instant she recognised him, as half un-gave, headed by their chief, poured down in the dark glen; and as they surrounded the Anola, the hills re-echoed their lamentations. There, they searched carefully for traces of the murderer—nor was their search successful, for a moosepass of Sah-quenah which he had lost in the struggle and the darkness told the whole tale but too truly. The people of the people rose so loudly and fiercely at the midnight assassin, that the chief fled before it, and ordering the body to be taken to the other village, announced his intention to comply with the Indian law and order life for life.

Slowly and sadly were they bearing the body to the former home of Anola, when frantic shrieks and cries behind them, caused them to turn back.

Not had they halted long, when a

PROHIBITING RIOTOUS AND DISORDERLY CONDUCT IN THE TOWN OF WOODVILLE.

any mayor so to do, for which the person or persons applying shall pay, if a circus, theatre, or menagerie, the sum of ten dollars, and if a museum, ledgerdellain, or feat of dexterity, a sum of five dollars, for each and every night the same may be shown or exhibited; and every person who shall so exhibit or show, without having obtained a license as before directed, shall be arrested by the constable, and taken before the mayor; and if, on trial, such person be convicted, the mayor shall impose a fine not exceeding twenty five dollars, on such offender, and commit him or them to custody, until fine and cost be paid, or, said mayor may, at his discretion, issue execution against such offender, for such fine and cost.

TAXING SHOWS AND EXHIBITIONS, AND HAWKERS AND PEDLERS.

SECTION 1. Be it Ordained by the Corporate Authorities of the Town of Woodville, in general meeting convened, That from and after the passage and promulgation of this ordinance, it shall not be lawful for any person, or persons, to show, or exhibit for profit, within said town, any theatre, circus, caravan, menagerie, museum, ledger-demain, or feats of dexterity, without first obtaining a license from the mayor so to do, for which the person or persons applying shall pay, if a circus, theatre, or menagerie, the sum of ten dollars, and if a museum, ledgerdemain, or feat of dexterity, a sum of five dollars, for each and every night the same may be shown or exhibited; and every person who shall so exhibit or show, without having obtained a license as before directed, shall be arrested by the constable, and taken before the mayor; and if, on trial, such person be convicted, the mayor shall impose a fine not exceeding twenty five dollars, on such offender, and commit him or them to custody, until fine and cost be paid, or, said mayor may, at his discretion, issue execution against such offender, for such fine and cost.